Editor Sexually Transmitted Infections

Specialists in sexually transmitted infections (including HIV) are invited to apply for the post of Editor. Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a short statement about the strengths and weaknesses of Sexually Transmitted Infections, and your proposed editorial policy.

Full editorial support will be provided and it is envisaged that the editor will need to devote about half a day per week to the journal. The editorial office is currently based at BMA House in London.

Sexually Transmitted Infections is an international journal and we seek applicants world wide. Joint applications from two or more candidates wishing to act as co-Editors will be considered.

Closing date is 29th June 2002. Interviews will be held in September 2002 to enable the successful candidate(s) to take up the post in the 4th quarter of 2002.

Details of the post can be discussed with the current editor (Dr Mohsen Shahmanesh, email: mohsen.shahmanesh@sbcht.wmids.nhs.uk) or Mrs Alex Williamson, to whom applications should be sent. A job description is available on request.

Mrs Alex Williamson, BMJ Publishing Group, BMA House, Tavistock Square, London WC1H 9JR, UK. Telephone +44 (0)20 7 383 6169; Fax: +44 (0)20 7 383 6668; email: awilliamson@bmjgroup.com
